Oral health is crucial to overall health and quality of life. And a dental benefits plan is instrumental in keeping healthy and productive. For example, the National Association of Dental Plans reports those without access to dental benefits have higher incidence of illness overall and are: 67% more likely to have heart disease 50% more likely to have osteoporosis 29% more likely to have diabetes Reliance Standard offers a variety of dental programs tailored to fit the needs of most employers. Participating Provider Organization (PPO) plans help cut costs by encouraging visits a participating network dentist. In addition, individuals covered under our dental and vision plans receive access to a noninsurance Rx discount through thousands of pharmacies nationwide. Reliance Standard also offers a variety of cost-effective, flexible vision plans, including benefits toward comprehensive eye exams and materials such as prescription contact lenses and eyeglasses. Reliance Standard eye care programs are available on their own, or in tandem with a Reliance Standard Dental, STD/LTD or Life Insurance program. They're excited, that is, until they realize that dental insurance is not like medical insurance. Check out these interesting facts about dental insurance. Dental Insurance Is a Supplement, Not Full Coverage When you get medical insurance, it generally provides a good portion of the coverage. With dental insurance, it's usually a supplement to the amount of money you're paying out of pocket. CC0/quicksandala/Pixabay Many Routine Dental Procedures Are Not Covered by Insurance From deep cleaning to small fillings, many dental procedures that you'd think would be covered by dental insurance are often not. Check with your insurance company before you book appointments so that it's clear what you'll be responsible for. Senior dental plans may differ, so check with your plan. CC0/oswaldoriz/Pixabay Understand Your "Alternate Benefits" Insurers sometimes down-code a procedure you get from your dentist so that they only have to cover a portion of it, as stated by Dentistry IQ. You'll be responsible for the balance. CC BY-SA 2.0/401(K) 2013/Flickr Dental Insurance Didn't Exist Before 1954 Before 1954, all dental costs were paid by the individual. The first insurance plans were introduced by California, and maximum benefits didn't exceed $1,000. Sounds like nothing's changed, right? CC BY-SA 2.0/efile989/Flickr Dentists Charge the Same Fees to All Patients You may pay more or less than the next patient, but that's not the dentist's fault. What you pay will depend on your specific insurance plan. CC BY-SA 3.0/Nick Youngson/Picpedia "Preferred Provider" Isn't Always the Best When an insurer recommends a "preferred provider," what they're most likely recommending is a provider that costs less money than other ones. It doesn't mean they're better dentists. CC BY-SA 3.0/Nick Youngson/picserver Your Dentist Isn't Required to Submit Your Insurance Forms If you come across a dentist who doesn't take insurance, it simply means that you'll have to pay out of pocket for the procedure and submit your insurance forms yourself. Your dental office will give you a receipt. CC0/rawpixel.com/Pexels You Can (Probably) Choose the Dentist You Want Even if your PPO or HMO offers a list of preferred providers, you can most likely go to the dentist you want, even if the dentist is not on that list. Keep in mind that you may end up paying more. CC0/Free-Photos/Pixabay 80 to 100 Percent Coverage Is Not Always Accurate Even though insurers frequently state that they pay 80 percent to 100 percent of fees, that's not always true. How much coverage your employer pays determines how much the insurer pays. CC BY 2.0/Pictures of Money/Flickr "Above Usual and Customary Fees" Doesn't Mean What You Think It Means When insurers say that the amount your dentist is charging is above their customary fees, that's not necessarily they case, as stated by Dental Products Report. It may mean that their benefits are lower than the average costs charged by dentists. Select the login option based on where your employer is headquartered. CC0/kalhh/Pixabay There are many well known insurance companies, such as Aflac and State Farm. When looking for the right insurance company to suit your needs, you will have to sift through different insurance companies until you find the one with the right coverage options. This guide will help you figure out how to quickly compare insurance companies without wasting your time. Deductibles, Policy Changes, Limitations and Exclusions Always be aware of your insurance company's prices, whether you have to deal with percentage-based deductibles, limitations in various types of coverage, exclusions, or policy changes. You don't want to end up paying for dental care or health care only because you saw an out of network physician. Typically you will find information about the company's policies on the insurance company's profile. Insurance Company Secrets and How to Get What You Need We've all heard the tales of people being dropped from their health insurance right when they need coverage the most. In the business of insurance, whether it be for your health, life, car, boat or home you may be surprised to know just how these companies operate. However, there are a few ways you can protect yourself from being dropped by your insurance company. Common ways that insurance companies will try to avoid paying out include using a computer program to make sure they pay out the lowest sum possible, using percentage-based deductibles, refusing coverage and asking for health records, using your FICO score, determining if your car is a high risk for accidents without your knowledge, and failing to inform any beneficiaries for your life insurance policy. When the Insurance Company Doesn't Want to Pay Always read your insurance policies and contract information before you sign. If you need a medical procedure done, make sure you ask for it from your doctor by going into more detail about your symptoms and/or conditions. Deny any requests for your health records, as insurance companies are not legally allowed to have access to these records. Get multiple car insurance quotes to get a better idea of what you may have to pay, never be afraid to go for a reliable smaller insurance company if you have to. In the event that you should pass away, make sure you inform a reliable loved one that they are the beneficiary. This way you can be sure that they get the insurance claim. Top 6 Insurance Companies There are many reliable insurance companies. Here is a list of some established insurance companies you can feel secure when buying insurance from: 1.) Liberty Mutual 2.) Allstate 3.) Aflac 4.) Farmer's 5.) State Farm 6.)
